Back down to one page. I had big plans for this issue, but May was a busy month and I just didn't have time for extra. That's the beauty of doing it for free - I can be as big or small as I like and not have to worry about it.

My standby policy took some heat last month. It seems that the way I have it worded could cause a game to be declared irregular in some cases. If I called a standby for a three center position and not for a five (due to no available persons), then that game could be declared irregular. To avoid the possibility of that happening, I have changed my house rule to read as follows: A standby will be called for any position three centers and over. If the country has ~~only one or two centers, a state of Civil Disorder will be declared.~~ That should take care of that.

Only three positions left in the new game start. I really thought I would have seven by now, but no such luck. If you don't want to play, perhaps you know somebody who does. Those signed up are George Graessle, Rose Donaghue, Russell Wood, and Kathy Byrne.

DEADLINE FOR ALL GAMES IS 30 JUNE, 1984

* There is a proposal for an E-I-T draw. Please vote with next season's orders.
A NVR is a yes.

PARIS: The battle for Gibraltar continues. It is hoped that within a year or two someone will get something out of it, but with the Turks out on the loose, there won't be much to get.

FRANCE-ENGLAND: We are very sorry about the invasion - the army will be withdrawn when your forces no longer pose a direct threat to our supplies.

ITALY-ENGLAND: What say we meet and talk over a glass of French wine?
